Welcome to Strasbourg!

Explore the various options listed in this university guide based on your profile and budget. The toolkit offers plenty of practical advice to help ensure your stay goes as smoothly as possible. We hope this practical guide – updated annually by the International Relations Office and the Solidarity Mission – answer your questions. Please feel free to contact the university for more information.

Beware of scams

This housing guide is intended for informational purposes only. It is your responsibility to verify the reliability and accuracy of each housing offer.

Above all, do not pay any money until you have visited the accommodation or signed a rental contract.

Some landlords ask for a cheque or a bank transfer to reserve accommodation. This practice is illegal in France. For advice or legal assistance regarding housing, you can contact the ANIL (National Agency for Housing Information) free of charge: anil.org. Under no circumstances and for no reason can the University of Strasbourg be held responsible for any physical, moral, material, or financial damage caused in connection with a rental agreement. In doubt, you can also contact the Access to Rights help desk of the Solidarity Mission: sol-accesauxdroits@unistra.fr

International Relation Office (Direction des relations internationales)

It welcomes, guides, and supports all international students coming to the University of Strasbourg, whether through an inter-university agreement or on an individual basis. Integration and cultural events, workshops, assistance with mobility-related procedures, and individual appointments are organised by the teams of the International Relations Office (DRI) based at the International University House (Maison Universitaire Internationale). For further information, students can visit the Maison Universitaire Internationale (MUI).

Solidarity Mission (Mission solidarité)

The Solidarity Mission is a service dedicated to all university students. Open from Monday to Friday, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. It offers listening, support, and personalised support throughout the entire administrative process. It also provides drop-in sessions with social workers on Tuesdays and Thursdays, without appointment.

International University House (Maison Universitaire Internationale)

Located on the ground floor of the International University House, the Mobility Hub is responsible for reception, support, and the promotion of international activities within the International Relations Office—as well as the University of Strasbourg's Euraxess Service Centre. These services are dedicated to welcoming international visitors and organize workshops to assist foreign students with administrative procedures (residence permits, social security, housing search, financial aid), as well as French language courses and a cultural calendar. The Euraxess Service Centre offers personalised, free assistance specially to international researchers (including PhD candidates) and their families.

Housing – The 5 main steps to follow

Step 1 | I Start Looking For Accommodation Early Enough

- I look for accommodation and consult the Guide
- I never send money to reserve a place – beware of scams!
- I look for a guarantor
- I carefully plan my move-in expenses (security deposit, insurance, etc.)

Step 2 | I Complete The Administrative Procedures

- I visit the accommodation before signing the contract
- I insure my accommodation
- I sign the lease agreement
- I carry out the move-in inspection (inventory of fixtures)
- I apply for housing assistance with CAF

Step 3 | I Set Up My Utility Accounts

- gas • electricity • internet

Step 4 | I Maintain My Accommodation

- I clean my accommodation regularly
- I avoid waste: I use water and energy responsibly
- I remember to open the windows every day
- I sort my waste

Step 5 | I Move Out Of My Accommodation

- I send my notice on time
- I clean thoroughly and carry out repairs if necessary
- I complete the move-out inspection
- I receive my security deposit
- I report my change of address

Type of accommodation

A university residence is accommodation managed by a public organisation (such as the University of Strasbourg or the CROUS), primarily designed for students.

Partnership with Studapart

Studapart is a multilingual online booking platform that features listings from landlords and private university residences looking to rent their accommodations to international students. Thanks to its partnership, the University of Strasbourg offers you special access to the platform. You can search for housing and directly contact the landlords or private university residences of your choice via the messaging system, and make secure reservations on the website. All you need to pay the first month's rent to guarantee your housing reservation. To do so, you will need to provide proof of enrollment at the University of Strasbourg (student card, enrollment certificate, acceptance letter, or hosting agreement from the laboratory).

Private residences

Private residences are housing facilities managed by independent real estate operators. They offer a living environment that combines autonomy and student life, offering various amenities such as laundry services, cleaning, and common areas to encourage interactions among residents. These establishments are often valued for their flexibility and facilities tailored to the needs of students.

Halls of residence

Hall of residence is a social housing facility. It typically offers single or shared rooms, furnished or unfurnished, of a smaller size than a private residence. The hall of residence includes common areas (kitchen, infirmary, laundry facilities) and sometimes even a catering service. This type of facility is often run by associations. It is intended for student with modest income or young workers who are in the process of integration.

Practical guides

Housing expenses

Before coming to Strasbourg, it is very important to prepare your budget carefully, as housing is very expensive.

Here is a list of expenses to plan for:

Costs when moving into your accommodation (to be paid during the first month):

- Possible moving costs
- Possible real estate agency fees: approximately one month's rent
- Security deposit: one month's rent (excluding charges) for unfurnished accommodation and two months' rent (excluding charges*) for furnished accommodation
- First month's rent
- Utility set-up fees: water, gas, electricity, internet
- Home insurance: mandatory

Monthly expenses:

- Internet subscription
- Utilities: water, electricity and gas

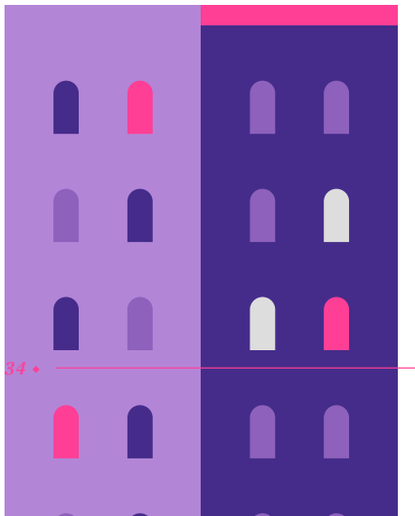

Average monthly rent estimates:

- University residence (Crous): between €201 and €600
- Private student residence: between €520 and €650
- Studio in the private sector: between €500 and €750, charges included

Warning!

Do not pay reservation cheques or other illegal fees.
This is prohibited by law, even if some agencies ask for them!
Be cautious when looking for accommodation. Do not pay reservation fees or any other unjustified fees.
Such fees are prohibited by French law, even if some agen cies or landlords ask for them.
If in doubt, seek advice from your host institution before making any payment.

* Note: charges are the common building expenses and may sometimes include water, heating or other utilities, depending on the accommodation.

The little dictionary about housing

You are looking for accommodation, but the vocabulary and abbreviations used in housing advertisements can be difficult to understand. Here is a glossary to help you:

Home insurance

This mandatory insurance covers damage that may occur in your accommodation (such as water leaks or fires). You can obtain it from an insurance company, a bank, or a student mutual organisation.

Lease or rental agreement

This is a written document signed between the tenant (you) and the landlord. It states the rights and responsibilities of both parties: duration of the rental, rent, charges, notice period, security deposit, etc. In shared accommodation, there may be a single lease for all tenants or several individual leases. Be careful: a lease may contain unfair clauses, so take the time to read it before signing.

Termination or ending of the lease

You can terminate your lease by respecting the required notice period and informing your landlord by registered letter.

Monthly service charges

These are fees related to the maintenance of common areas (such as the elevator or cleaning). They may be included in the rent or listed separately. Do not confuse them with personal utility bills such as water, electricity or gas.

Shared accommodation

Living in a property with other people (roommates). There are two main types of leases: a single contract signed by all tenants with a solidarity clause, or individual leases for each tenant without a solidarity clause.
In shared accommodation a solidarity clause means that all tenants are jointly responsible for paying the rent and charges. If one tenant does not pay, the landlord can ask the other tenants to cover the missing amount.

Security deposit ("caution")

This is an amount of money paid to the landlord when signing the contract. It is returned within two months after you leave, unless damage is found.

Inventory of fixtures (check-in/ check-out inspection)

Refers to a visit with the landlord when moving in and moving out to check the condition of the accommodation. It serves as a reference for the return of the security deposit.

Guarantor

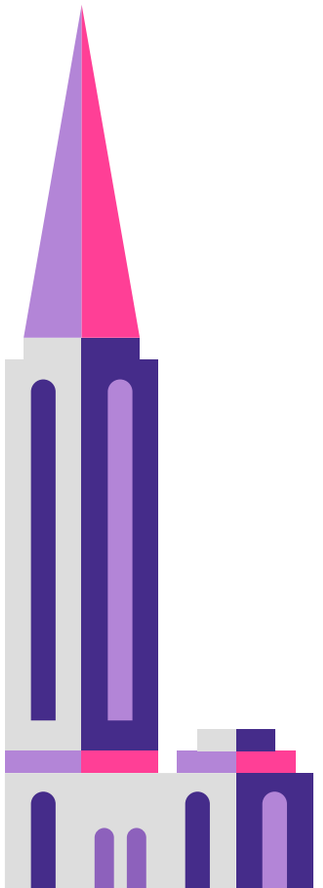

A person (a parent, family member, friend, etc.) who agrees to pay your rent if you are unable to do so. The guarantor must provide proof of income. If you do not have a personal guarantor, the VISALE guarantee scheme may be an option.

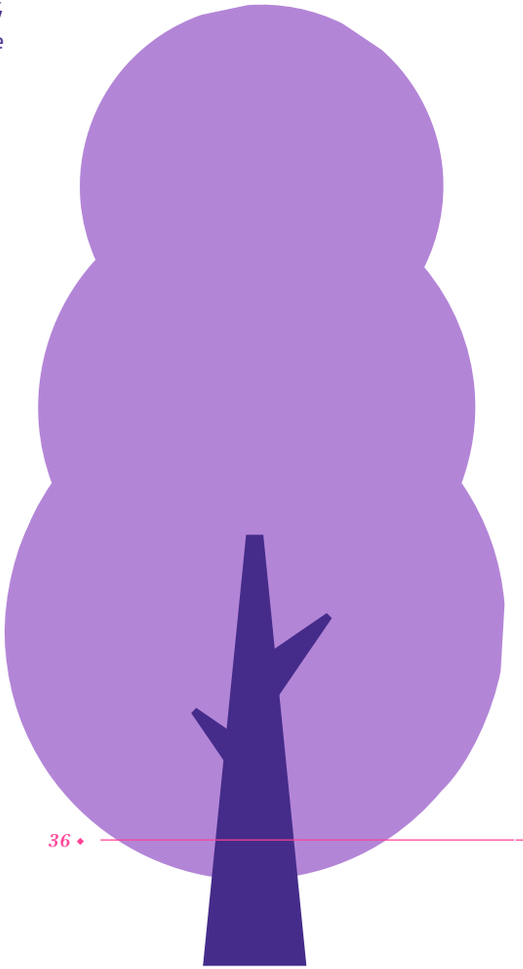

Agency fees

If a real state manages the property, fees may be charged for signing the lease and carrying out the inventory of fixtures. These fees are regulated by law.

Rent receipt

A document proving that the rent has been paid. It can be used as proof of address for administrative procedures. You can request it free of charge, but sending it may sometimes be billed.

How to understand a property advertisement?

This guide will help you understand what to look for in property ads!

M²: This is the size of the living space measured in square meters.
Minimum legal space: 9 m² for one person, 16 m² for two people, plus 9 m² for each extra person.
F1/T1: A one-room flat with a kitchen and a bathroom.
F2/T2: A two-room flat with a kitchen and a bathroom.
F3/T3: A three-room flat with a kitchen and a bathroom.

Common Abbreviations

Pft ét: In perfect condition
Rdc: Ground floor
Sdb (or sb): Bathroom
Sdd: Shower room (no bathtub)
TCC: All charges included
Vis: Visit (to see the property)

WARNING: Rental scams are common!
Some individuals pretend to be landlords in order to extort money or identity documents.

How can you spot a suspicious listing?

Certain warning signs should alert you, such as an unusually low rent, identical descriptions appearing in multiple advertisements, or photos copied from other listings.

If a private landlord asks you to transfer money through services such as MoneyGram or Western Union, refuse!

Finally, if you go through a real estate agency, keep in mind that agency fees cannot be requested before the lease is signed. If someone asks you for money in exchange for property viewings or lists of accommodations, be cautious and do not proceed.

If you have been the victim of a rental scam or believe that a listing may be fraudulent, report it without delay at internet-signalement.gouv.fr

How to prepare your rental application file

The landlord or the real estate agent may ask you to provide documents to verify your identity and your financial situation. This allows them to check the reliability of your application. Here are the main documents you should prepare that they may request:

Identity document

This can be an identity card, a passport, a driver's license, or a valid residence permit.

Proof of professional or student status

This can be an employment contract, an employer certificate, an internship agreement, a student card or certificate of enrolment, as well as any recent document showing your professional activity.

Proof of financial resources

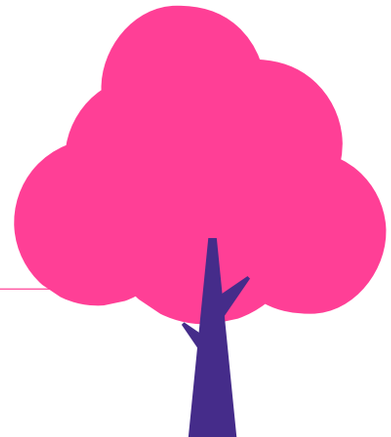

If you receive a scholarship, you will need to provide proof of it. If you are employed, you must provide your last three payslips. If you receive financial support from your family, you will need to show proof of the amount and the regularity of this support.

Proof of address

This can be a rent receipt, an electricity bill, a certificate of residence, or a sworn statement from the person hosting you.

Copy of your latest tax notice

Even if you are a foreign student, some landlords may ask for your latest tax notice. If you do not have one, they may accept a tax notice from your parents or guarantor.

GOOD TO KNOW!

French law forbids landlords from requesting certain confidential documents, such as bank statements, bank account certificates, marriage contracts, medical records, etc.
Discrimination in access to housing is also prohibited. A landlord cannot refuse an application on the basis of origin, religion, political opinions, gender, physical appearance, etc. It is common for landlords to ask for a guarantor, that is, a person who agrees to pay your rent if you are unable to do so. In France, guarantors are almost always required, whether you are a foreigner or French.

If you do not have a guarantor, do not worry—there are alternatives:

VISALE

A free guarantee scheme that covers rent and charges in case of unpaid rent. More information at visale.fr.

LOCAPASS

A free service that can advance or pay the security deposit. More information at locapass.actionlogement.fr.

The rental agreement

What is a rental contract? A rental contract, also called a lease agreement, is an agreement to rent a property between the landlord and the tenant.
The rental contract must be written, dated, and signed by both the landlord and the tenant. Each person must keep an identical copy of the lease and the signed documents.

The rental contract must include the following information:

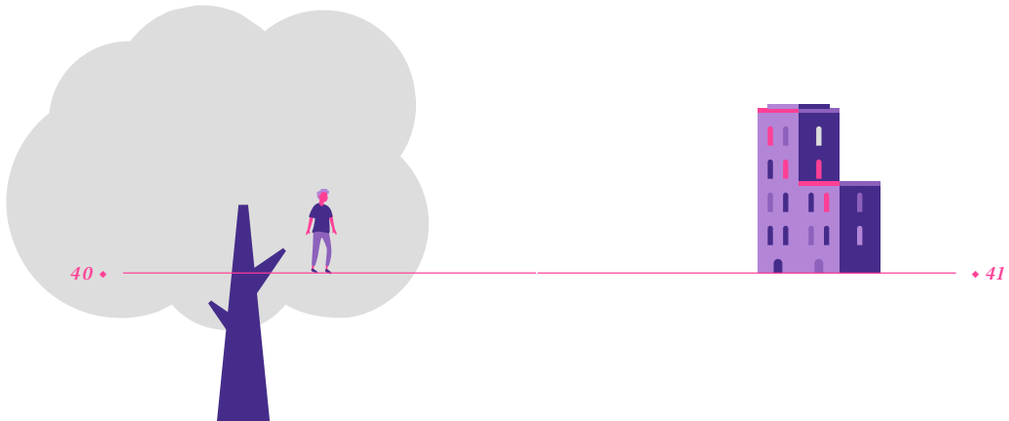

- Name and address of the landlord
- Names of the tenants (if it is shared accommodation)
- Start date and duration of the lease
- Purpose of the accommodation (main residence or temporary stay)
- Living area in square meters
- Description of the accommodation (house or apartment, number of rooms) and equipment
- Amount of the security deposit
- Amount of agency fees (if applicable)
- Rent and charges (amounts and payment dates)

Focus: The security deposit

The security deposit is a sum of money that the tenant must pay to the landlord when signing the lease. This money is collected and kept by the landlord during the entire rental period. It guarantees that you will take care of the accommodation and covers possible damages.

Maximum amount:

- One month's rent (excluding charges) for unfurnished accommodation
- Up to two month's rent for furnished accommodation

What does the security deposit cover?

The security deposit can be used to cover:

- Unpaid rent or charges at the end of the rental period
- The cost of repairs and damages
- Lack of proper maintenance of the accommodation
- Cleaning costs if the accommodation is not left in an acceptable condition

If damages are found when you leave the accommodation, the cost will be deducted from the security deposit. The remaining amount (or the full deposit if there is no damage) must be returned to you no later than two months after your departure.

Warning!

Some clauses are forbidden by law in a lease, such as:

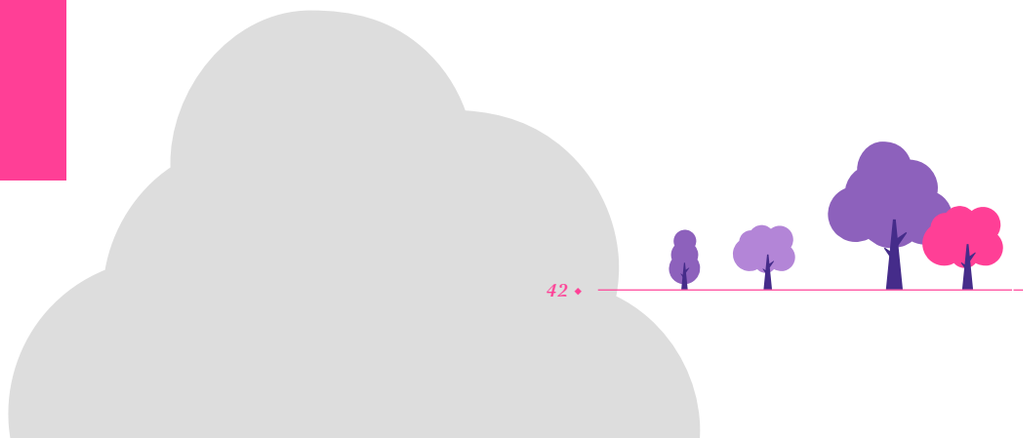

- Requiring payment of rent exclusively by direct debit
- Forcing the tenant to subscribe to a specific insurance policy
- Allowing the landlord to reduce or remove services mentioned in the contract without equivalent compensation
- Holding the tenant responsible for all damage to the accommodation even when they are not responsible for it
- Preventing the tenant from holding the landlord responsible or exempting the landlord from all responsibility
- Forbidding the tenant from hosting people who do not usually live with them
- Forbidding the tenant from taking part in political, trade union, association, or religious activities

Good to know!

The rent may be revised once per year, but only if the contract specifies it.

Where can I find the detailed regulations?

Legal text: Law n° 89-462 of 6 July 1989.

Your Rights and Obligations

Landlord's obligations

Provide decent housing

The landlord must ensure that the accommodation is in good condition and suitable to live in.

Comply with legal housing standards

The accommodation must meet legal living standards, with electrical and heating systems that meet safety regulations:

- minimum surface area and energy performance
- no risk to the tenant's safety or health
- no pests or infestations
- provision of certain basic facilities (drinking water, heating, etc.)

Provide a rent receipt

Upon request, the landlord must provide a rent receipt free of charge.

Tenant's obligations

Pay rent and charges

The tenant must pay the rent and charges on the agreed dates.

Home insurance

The tenant must take out home insurance covering rental risks.

Carry out certain maintenance work

The tenant must take care of minor maintenance that is not the landlord's responsibility, such as small repairs or boiler maintenance.

Maintain the accommodation

The tenant must keep the accommodation clean and in good condition.

Respect the neighbors

The tenant must avoid causing noise or disturbances to neighbors.

Do not sublet without permission

The tenant cannot sublet the accommodation without landlord's consent.

In case of a dispute

If a problem occurs, first try to resolve it amicably by discussing it with the other party. If this does not work, you can seek advice from the National Agency for Housing Information (Anil) or contact the Departmental Agency for Housing Information (Adil) near you. For more information, consult the website of Adil Bas-Rhin: adil67.org

Additional information is also available on service-public.fr.

Moving into Your Accommodation

You have found a place to live and will soon be moving in. What steps do you need to take?

CHECKLIST for Moving In:

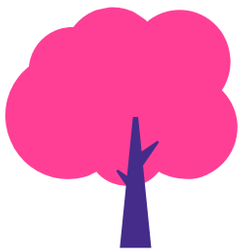

- ☐ I take out home insurance (mandatory)
- ☐ I keep my rental agreement or lease contract safely (it has legal value)
- ☐ I pay the security deposit to the landlord when signing the lease (one- or two-months' rent depending on the case)
- ☐ I carry out a detailed inventory and condition report with the landlord (known as a "joint inspection"); it is signed by both the landlord and myself
- ☐ I record the water, gas, and electricity meter readings when move-in and move-out
- ☐ I open electricity and gas accounts (unless they are included in the charges)
- ☐ If necessary, I take out an internet subscription
- ☐ I remember to notify my change of address: university, bank, insurance, tax office, CAF (family benefits office), social security, prefecture

Did you know?

The security deposit is kept by the landlord for the entire duration of the tenancy and may be deposited or cashed upon receipt. It cannot be considered as an advance on rent, and I must continue paying rent until the official move-out date.
The inventory and condition report is a mandatory document describing the condition of the accommodation room by room, as well as its equipment. It helps prevent disputes when moving out.
It must be detailed: room by room, from floor to ceiling. All equipment must be described: cupboards, heating, shower, type and condition of wall coverings, doors, windows, shutters, etc.

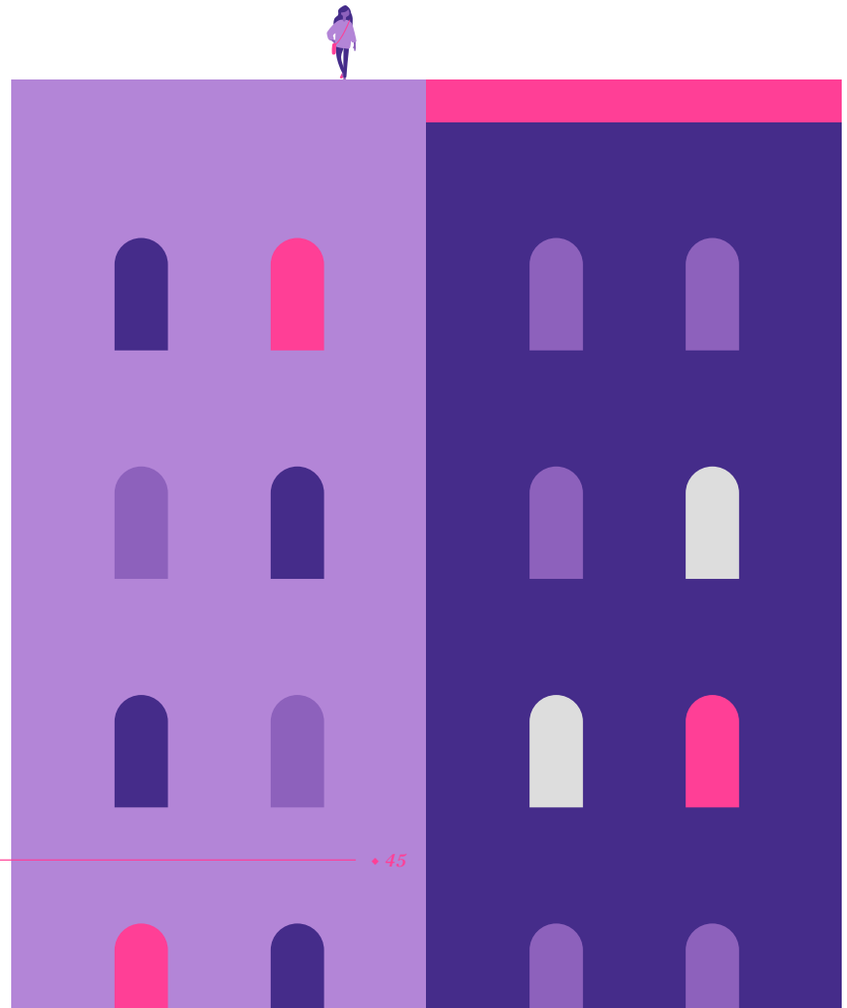

Electricity and Gas

To open an electricity or gas account (very quick process), you will need your lease agreement, an ID document, and the name of the previous account holder.

Can a landlord keep a duplicate set of keys to a tenant's accommodation?

Yes, the landlord may keep a duplicate set of keys to the property they rent out. However, they are not allowed to enter the accommodation without the tenant's consent. Even in case of emergency (for example, water damage), the landlord must obtain the tenant's permission before entering. If the landlord enters without the tenant's consent, the tenant can file a complaint for unlawful entry.

Maintaining Your Accommodation and Eco-Friendly Habits

Upon your arrival, your accommodation must be clean, and it must also be clean when you leave. It is your responsibility to maintain it regularly and return it in good condition when you move out. Here are some tips and simple actions to help you.

Air out your accommodation every day, in both summer and winter

Open the windows for at least 10 minutes a day to refresh the air and prevent humidity and mold. You will breathe healthier air!
Remember to close the windows properly when you leave!

Clean the kitchen regularly

It is one of the most important areas to maintain. Make sure to clean the countertop, sink, and appliances after each use.

Wash dishes regularly and take out the trash!

This will prevent food leftovers from sitting too long, reduces the risk of pests and unpleasant odours.

Clean the bathroom

The sink, shower, and toilet. Also keep towels and bath mats clean and wash them regularly.

Dust regularly

clean surfaces with a damp cloth, wipe windows, and don't forget to sweep, vacuum, and mop the floor, including under furniture (bed, desk, table). This helps improve indoor air quality.

The day before leaving the accommodation

Defrost your refrigerator before unplugging it and clean it inside, outside, and underneath.

TIPS:

- To clean your accommodation, use inexpensive eco-friendly products such as white vinegar, baking soda, or black soap.
- Avoid using incense and candles, as they release pollutants.
- Avoid smoking in your accommodation, even with the window open!
- Air out more when doing DIY work, cooking, cleaning, or after a shower.
- Remember to lower the heating and turn off the lights when you go out!
- Clean and defrost the refrigerator regularly.
- Cover pots when heating water.
- Set the heating to 19°C in the room (1°C less means 7% less energy consumption).

Moving Out of Your Accommodation

Move-out Checklist:

- ☐ I inform the landlord of my departure (notice period)
- ☐ I transfer or cancel my home insurance
- ☐ I transfer or cancel my electricity/gas/water/internet/phone subscriptions
- ☐ I empty the accommodation and make sure to clean every corner: cupboards, ventilation system, electrical outlets, windows, appliances if provided, etc.
- ☐ I check that doors, cupboards, windows, switches, etc. are working properly. All these details will help you avoid deductions from your security deposit
- ☐ I carry out minor repairs (filling holes, small paint touch-ups, etc.). All these details will help you avoid deductions from your security deposit
- ☐ I complete the move-out inspection with the landlord and return the keys
- ☐ I provide my new address to the former landlord to ensure a quick return of the security deposit (usually within 1 month)
- ☐ I inform relevant organisations of my change of address: prefecture (ANEF), tax office, family allowance office (CAF), health insurance office (CPAM), etc.

Did you know?

Notice period

You can leave your accommodation at any time, but you must respect a notice period and pay rent during this time.

- Notice period for an unfurnished rental agreement: 3 months (often 1 month in Strasbourg)
- Notice period for a furnished rental agreement or a mobility lease: one month

WWW.SERVICE-PUBLIC.GOUV.FR/PARTICULIERS/VOSDROITS/F2315

WWW.SERVICE-PUBLIC.GOUV.FR/PARTICULIERS/VOSDROITS/F34759

You must send a registered letter with acknowledgment of receipt to your landlord. Move-out inspection A move-out inspection is carried out with the landlord to check the condition of the accommodation. If there is any damage, costs may be deducted from the security deposit. It is therefore recommended to clean the accommodation and repair minor damage.

Security deposit

The landlord must return the deposit:

- Within 1 month if the accommodation is in good condition.
- Within 2 months if repairs are needed.
